

When it comes to watching movies or TV shows at home, I always prefer to use an app that lets me watch the videos with subtitles. There are always a number of movies and TV shows available for download online and through apps, but which one should you choose? This blog post compares the top movie and television show subtitle services based on their number of downloads, compatibility with other streaming apps, and substantial subscription options. So which is better: Movie2k or Subflix? Movie2k - One of the most popular free websites for downloading TV episodes and movies with English subtitles. It's compatible with iTunes as well as many other video streaming platforms like Netflix, Hulu Plus, Amazon Prime Video, etc. Movie2k doesn't offer unlimited downloads and offers a free trial of the subscription service with ads, but its user interface is easy to navigate and it has very few advertisements. You can also find free movies and TV shows on Movie2k by searching for keywords like "free movie", "free online movie", or "watch free movies online". 1. Access: Movie2k is available through their website or through apps that can be downloaded from the Apple App Store, Google Play Store, and the Amazon Android App store. However, in order to use their website you need an invitation code which is sent by email after signing up for a valid account using your email, Facebook/Google+/Twitter/etc ID. Make sure you enter a valid email address and check your spam folder. 2. Number of Downloads: As of June 2017, Movie2k has over 5 million daily users and over 7 million registered users; it's no surprise that this app is one of the most popular video downloader apps on the web today. 3. Subtitles: Movie2k offers English subtitles for all its videos (and most other languages too) by default, but you can switch to any other language by clicking on the CC button in the bottom right corner while watching a video in full screen mode. 4. Download Limit: Movie2k does not offer unlimited downloads. You can download their free movies and TV shows as much as you want, but after that you'll have to watch the ads or pay for the subscription service to continue downloading. They do offer a free trial of their subscription service with ads, but it's only available for U.S users and only lasts one week (4 days if you don't bother cancelling your trial which will automatically convert to a paid subscription afterwards). 5. User Interface: Movie2k's website and apps are straightforward and easy to navigate. You can use this service to download videos with English subtitles from all the major streaming sites like Netflix, Hulu, Amazon Prime Video, etc... 6. Technology: Movie2k is based in the US and uses their own proprietary technology (this means that there is no DRM) for video files. They also claim that their technology doesn't need internet connection in order to work (it actually does need a connection when downloading movies at first; when downloaded you won't need an internet connection if you're watching them offline). 7.
